JOB OPPORTUNITY #1

Project Analyst
Analyst I
Department of Family Health Care Nursing
University of California, San Francisco

Req. #: 41425BR

The Project Analyst’s primary responsibility is to support the dual specialty certified nurse-midwife (CNM) and women’s health nurse-practitioner (WHNP) faculty and students, as well as provide analytical support and direction to the grant-related project team. Specific grant analysis functions includes management and analysis for project data reports and outcomes; analysis of student scheduling requirements for the project and outcomes dissemination. The CNM/WHNP specialty admits 12-18 students per year to a three-track education program from an applicant pool that numbers over 80. This position requires sophisticated managerial and administrative skills to orchestrate the complex activities of both students and faculty. The candidate will perform other duties as assigned.
